Have you ever wanted to explore a sequence of Feldenkrais Method® Awareness Through Movement (ATM) lessons to help you 'wake up'?

Feldenkrais Method® and theatre practitioner, Anna Yen, assisted by Julie Peck, Feldenkrais Trainer, will lead you through a sequence of dynamic Awareness Through Movement lessons which incorporate:

- multiple ways to move from standing to sitting to lying on the floor, and back up to standing.
- moving across the floor
- flexion (folding movements), extension (arching movements), side bending and rotation (twisting and spiraling movements)
- practising focus which is both inside and outside i.e. both awareness of how you are moving, and of the environment in which you are moving.

The workshop incorporates games, which playfully develop awareness of the space, other people, and rhythm. This exploratory, draft sequence of Awareness Through Movement lessons, was put together by European theatre teacher, Monika Pagneux, to help performers "wake up", to be ready to play and to follow their impulses on stage (or in life!) Anna has studied extensively with Pagneux, whose aim is to help people be "wonderful, sensitive, moving human beings".

Anna Yen is a movement teacher, physical theatre director/creator/performer, circus tutor and Feldenkrais Method® practitioner. (Brisbane II Feldenkrais Practitioner Training Programme, 2000). Her work spans theatre, contemporary circus, physical theatre, street theatre and film. She teaches in universities, communities, companies, festivals and schools. Anna's work is inspired by renowned European theatre teacher, Monika Pagneux who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in Paris in the 1970s and integrated Feldenkrais' work into her actor training. Anna has been studying movement training for performance with Pagneux in Europe since 1994 and has attended Pagneux's pedagogy workshops annually from 2007-2013. Anna's acclaimed one-woman show "Chinese Take Away" and its film adaptation has taken her to festivals around the world. She is a finalist in the Queensland Premier's Drama Award 2018 with her new work-in-development, "Slow Boat". Other awards include a Creative Partnerships Art and Health Award Qld with The Lamingtons for Griffith University - Wesley Mission Brisbane - Playful Engagement project, and a Churchill Fellowship. Anna is the founder of PlayMoves: www.playmoves.org

Julie Peck, B.App.Sc. (Physiotherapy), Certified Feldenkrais Trainer Julie is a highly respected Feldenkrais practitioner and international trainer. She has presented at trainings in Australasia, Europe and USA, as well as at conferences and workshops. Julie was the Educational Director for the recent Perth Feldenkrais Practitioner Training Programme.
